Adverse possession (or squatters rights) is a method that allows an individual or organisation to become the registered owner of land by on the basis of possessing the land, rather than by having a legal title. An application is made to the Land Registry and, if successful, the land is registered in the applicant's name.

In order for Theale Parish Council (TPC) to acquire the land you have been maintaining by adverse possession, you would need to prove the 2 basic requirements:

1. Factual possession (exclusive physical control) of the land by the TPC, for a period of 10 years ending when the application is made, and
2. An intention to possess the land

1. It appears that TPC has been in possession of the land for the required amount of time as the email chain refers to the land being maintained by the Parish Council for over 23 years.

To make a successful application to register the land, you would need to provide evidence of TPC's possession of the land to the exclusion of others. You would need to establish that the Council had sufficient control of the land by carrying out acts such as:

- Fencing the land
- Maintaining the land
- Building on or developing the land
- other acts that would usually be carried out by the legal owner

This would need to be evidenced by photographs, reports and other documents showing TPC has been in possession of the land. The application would also need to be supported by statements signed by individuals with personal knowledge of the possession.

From looking at the document provided it appears likely that TPC could establish the required possession of the land, but it will depend on the specific acts that have been carried out on the land over the last 10 years.

2. TPC must also establish that they intended to possess the land in its own name, on its own behalf and to the exclusion of all others, including the legal owner. Such acts that are listed above will usually be sufficient to prove an intention to possess, as long as they have been done without any consent from the legal owner. It does not appear that TPC has ever had the landowners consent to maintain the land, but please note that would prevent TPC from having adverse possession of the land. Any other evidence that can show TPC were intending to possess the land on their own behalf (meeting minutes, emails about the land etc) would also be useful to prove the necessary intention.

It is also worth noting that an application to register TPC as the owner does not necessarily mean it will be successful. The registered owner will be served notice of the application and will have the opportunity to object to it. Given the amount of time TPC has been in possession, I think it is unlikely that an objection would be successful, but it is something be aware of; especially as you are in communication with the owner, they are aware of your possession and would be willing to sell the land to TPC.

Overall, on the basis of the information I have received, I think TPC would have a good chance of registering the land in its own name on the basis of adverse possession. Before an application could be made to register the land, further evidence would be required and it would need to be looked at in more detail, however the documents provided show both possession for the required amount of time, with intent to do so.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any further questions.

Dear Paul,

The John Cumber Hall

Please can you convey our thanks to the Parish Council for the work that has been put in over the future of the John Cumber Hall. We are also very grateful for the ongoing management of the upkeep and bookings for the hall. The meeting with Kate was most useful giving us direction for a future should the hall be under the Trusteeship of the Parish Council. We went through the process of drafting the charity into a CIO using the village hall format. However, on reflection and before additional funds had been awarded from West Berkshire Council, we felt it was important to take more responsibility for the way the John Cumber Hall can serve the village of Theale and be true to the objectives stated in the Trust Deed. On that basis, we are holding discussions with Martin Davy with the intention of starting at least some activities this autumn. We will report back to you how we are progressing in due course.

Yours sincerely

Mary Tearney

Introduction

These model standing orders update the National Association of Local Council (NALC) model standing orders contained in “Local Councils Explained” by Meera Tharmarajah (© 2013 NALC). This publication contains new model standing orders which reference new legislation introduced after 2013 when the last model standing orders were published.

How to use model standing orders

Standing orders are the written rules of a local council. Standing orders are essential to regulate the proceedings of a meeting. A council may also use standing orders to confirm or refer to various internal organisational and administrative arrangements. The standing orders of a council are not the same as the policies of a council but standing orders may refer to them.

Local councils operate within a wide statutory framework. NALC model standing orders incorporate and reference many statutory requirements to which councils are subject. It is not possible for the model standing orders to contain or reference all the statutory or legal requirements which apply to local councils. For example, it is not practical for model standing orders to document all obligations under data protection legislation. The statutory requirements to which a council is subject apply whether or not they are incorporated in a council's standing orders.

The model standing orders do not include model financial regulations. Financial regulations are standing orders to regulate and control the financial affairs and accounting procedures of a local council. The financial regulations, as opposed to the standing orders of a council, include most of the requirements relevant to the council's Responsible Financial Officer. Model financial regulations are available to councils in membership of NALC.

Drafting notes

Model standing orders that are in bold type contain legal and statutory requirements. It is recommended that councils adopt them without changing them or their meaning. Model standing orders not in bold are designed to help councils operate effectively but they do not contain statutory requirements so they may be adopted as drafted or amended to suit a council's needs. It is NALC's view that all model standing orders will generally be suitable for councils.

For convenience, the word “councillor” is used in model standing orders and, unless the context suggests otherwise, includes a non-councillor with or without voting rights.

A model standing order that includes brackets like this ‘()’ requires information to be inserted by a council. A model standing order that includes brackets like this ‘[]’ and the term ‘OR’ provides alternative options for a council to choose from when determining standing orders.

1. Rules of debate at meetings

- a Motions on the agenda shall be considered in the order that they appear unless the order is changed at the discretion of the chairman of the meeting.
- b A motion (including an amendment) shall not be progressed unless it has been moved and seconded.
- c A motion on the agenda that is not moved by its proposer may be treated by the chairman of the meeting as withdrawn.
- d If a motion (including an amendment) has been seconded, it may be withdrawn by the proposer only with the consent of the seconder and the meeting.
- e An amendment is a proposal to remove or add words to a motion. It shall not negate the motion.
- f If an amendment to the original motion is carried, the original motion (as amended) becomes the substantive motion upon which further amendment(s) may be moved.
- g An amendment shall not be considered unless early verbal notice of it is given at the meeting and, if requested by the chairman of the meeting, is expressed in writing to the chairman.
- h A councillor may move an amendment to his own motion if agreed by the meeting. If a motion has already been seconded, the amendment shall be with the consent of the seconder and the meeting.
- i If there is more than one amendment to an original or substantive motion, the amendments shall be moved in the order directed by the chairman of the meeting.
- j Subject to standing order 1(k), only one amendment shall be moved and debated at a time, the order of which shall be directed by the chairman of the meeting.
- k One or more amendments may be discussed together if the chairman of the meeting considers this expedient but each amendment shall be voted upon separately.
- l A councillor may not move more than one amendment to an original or substantive motion.
- m The mover of an amendment has no right of reply at the end of debate on it.
- n Where a series of amendments to an original motion are carried, the mover of the original motion shall have a right of reply either at the end of debate on the first amendment or at the very end of debate on the final substantive motion immediately before it is put to the vote.
- o Unless permitted by the chairman of the meeting, a councillor may speak once in the debate on a motion except:

- i. to speak on an amendment moved by another councillor;
 - ii. to move or speak on another amendment if the motion has been amended since he last spoke;
 - iii. to make a point of order;
 - iv. to give a personal explanation; or
 - v. to exercise a right of reply.
- p During the debate on a motion, a councillor may interrupt only on a point of order or a personal explanation and the councillor who was interrupted shall stop speaking. A councillor raising a point of order shall identify the standing order which he considers has been breached or specify the other irregularity in the proceedings of the meeting he is concerned by.
- q A point of order shall be decided by the chairman of the meeting and his decision shall be final.
- r When a motion is under debate, no other motion shall be moved except:
- i. to amend the motion;
 - ii. to proceed to the next business;
 - iii. to adjourn the debate;
 - iv. to put the motion to a vote;
 - v. to ask a person to be no longer heard or to leave the meeting;
 - vi. to refer a motion to a committee or sub-committee for consideration;
 - vii. to exclude the public and press;
 - viii. to adjourn the meeting; or
 - ix. to suspend particular standing order(s) excepting those which reflect mandatory statutory or legal requirements.
- s Before an original or substantive motion is put to the vote, the chairman of the meeting shall be satisfied that the motion has been sufficiently debated and that the mover of the motion under debate has exercised or waived his right of reply.
- t Excluding motions moved under standing order 1(r), the contributions or speeches by a councillor shall relate only to the motion under discussion and shall not exceed 5 minutes without the consent of the chairman of the meeting.

2. Disorderly conduct at meetings

- a No person shall obstruct the transaction of business at a meeting or behave offensively or improperly. If this standing order is ignored, the chairman of the meeting shall request such person(s) to moderate or improve their conduct.

- b If person(s) disregard the request of the chairman of the meeting to moderate or improve their conduct, any councillor or the chairman of the meeting may move that the person be no longer heard or be excluded from the meeting. The motion, if seconded, shall be put to the vote without discussion.
- c If a resolution made under standing order 2(b) is ignored, the chairman of the meeting may take further reasonable steps to restore order or to progress the meeting. This may include temporarily suspending or closing the meeting.
